

Mr. Perfect lives here, looking for Miss Right

LOVE | MATCHMAKER LOOKS FOR MATE FOR BACHELOR IN CITY TODAY, TULSA TOMORROW

Single ladies: This is your chance.

Apparently, the most perfect man on the planet lives in Oklahoma City and is looking for a wife.

Celebrity matchmaker Janis Spindel is conducting her search for this mystery bachelor's ideal future wife in Oklahoma City today and in Tulsa tomorrow. After that, he's doomed. Not really. Spindel said she always finds someone.

This is how Spindel describes the bachelor, who's in his late 40s: "He is a self-made entrepreneur, tall, strikingly handsome and a romantic gentleman with a fabulous sense of humor." This sounds like an eHarmony profile for a video game addict who lives with his parents and only leaves the house to attend video game conventions.

In her thick New York accent, Spindel swears that's not the case. But she always hears the same questions from women: "If this guy is so awesome, why does he need to hire you? Why can't he find someone on his own? What's wrong with him? Is he a geek? Is he ugly?"

Some people just don't have the avenues to meet the right person, so they hire Spindel to "do the editing for them," she said. That's nothing to be ashamed of. So why is this guy keeping his identity secret?

"I've been doing this almost 18 years," Spindel said. Not once have I had a guy tell (his identity).

They're very private. I'm dealing with people's emotions. ... They just don't tell. They don't kiss and tell."

However, the search for love must go on.
